Dear Kentucky science colleagues,

The 2020 Kentucky Academy of Science Annual meeting will be virtual this year, November 6-7. We're offering a free registration option this year knowing that our educational institutions have no budgets for travel & conferences. We're excited to offer Kentucky scientists a platform nevertheless for presenting their research papers and posters. We're also excited to welcome Kentucky teachers an opportunity to participate for free!

Our keynote speakers are Dr Steven Stack, Kentucky's Commissioner of the Department for Public Health, and Chris Atchison, Executive Director of the International Association for Geoscience Diversity, advocating for students and geoscientists with disabilities.

We're welcoming sponsors for our virtual meeting, if you are able to help us offset our modest costs to produce this event. We'd like to recognize you on our website and in our newsletter. We're seeking sponsorships at the $250, $500, and $1000 level.

Kentucky Academy of Science fosters scientific discovery and understanding in Kentucky, and this is our largest event of the year. We know your company has a focus of support for the sciences in Kentucky and we look forward to highlighting your good work.

Please contact me if you have any questions or find meeting information at <http://kyscience.org>

Best wishes,
